

Installation

Our process-oriented project management offers you comprehensive service, delivery, professional assembly, handing-over and briefing. You can rely on punctual execution and flawless after-sales service.

Service

Even quality requires care. Qualified maintenance provides security and reduces your operating and subsequent costs. Our fast and reliable service assumes all maintenance work so that you are completely satisfied with the technology and installation in daily operation – even years later.

“We speak your language”

As an experienced manufacturer and outfitter – with more than 400 employees – we are familiar with your daily tasks. We advise you on a practice-oriented basis. Our group of companies, with the kitchen specialist KIESEL and the furnishings specialist AICHINGER, offers you customized concepts and high-quality furnishings in unique combination. As your partner we have not only technical functionality in our focus but also and in particular your business success.

Welcome!

"No matter whether it was a question of design, use of material, quality of workmanship or efficient work flow, – with AICHINGER I became aware of their long years of experience in planning and realization right from the start. AICHINGER can be integrated into every phase of the project: from design to technology, function and construction management to the successful opening. That's something we seldom find with this degree of professionalism."

Here's to success!

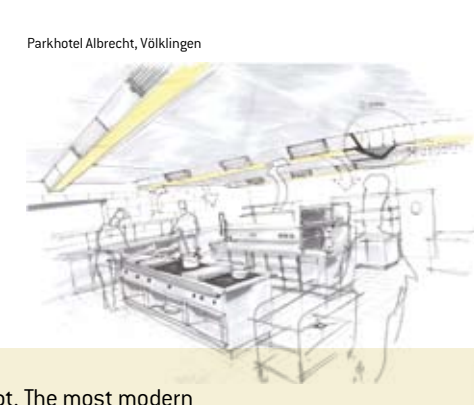

"The requirements of our kitchen technology were extraordinarily high. Along with our high-quality à-la-carte business, our external catering service and a large banquet and conference area are important parts of our hotel and restaurant concept. The solution worked out by the KIESEL specialists and our team has been a complete success right from the start."
